

Stalker

Kasey Chambers

I would wear a locket around my neck
With a drop of your blood in it
And show all my friends if I had one
I would stand outside your window
Peeking in while it was dark
And the dogs down the street are howling

Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker
Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker

I would follow you to the supermarket
Where you buy your bread
Take a moment just to memorize the grain
I would think about you every night
I'm lyin in my bed
And when it comes I would call out your name

Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker
Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker
Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker
Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker

I would park outside your house
Even when I know you're not home
And I'd wait for the moment you return
I would leave a message on your door
For only you to see
And say things like 'there's no need for concern'

Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker
Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker
Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker
Can I be, can I be, can I be your stalker

I would hang up when I call you
Leave notes upon your car
Have a room just for your pictures
I would love you from afar
I would love you from afar
I will love you from afar
