

I Am Nothing

Katatonía

tonight I'm nothing it doesn't matter where I've been delay of reaction is the unseen movie of this life

I remember one of my friends telling me to go ahead water on every side there's a dead spot in my eye if I listen close at night there's something coming my way like someone called my name but I didn't care to look that way I just fixed my eyes into the crowd it would have been strange to turn around if you would tell me that I was someone then for a second I would think just like I would try to consider how it would feel to know

I have to get on with this it's a decision for tonight out to look for chances it is murder of my mind once I was someone new I was chosen for a while then with time I am changing at least that is what they say what is worth with being here I pray so often for a change
