

Thanks For Today

Kate Miller-Heidke

Waving goodbye in the afternoon
Breathing a sigh cause we know that soon,
All that we'll have is this photograph

Remember before we were even friends
Funny to think this is how it ends
No going back along this path

Thanks for today
Your smile goes a long way
Now let's leave before the tide comes back in
No one's to blame
And there's nothing left to say
Concerning who we were and how we are

Some of the days used to seem so long
Having to face knowing they were wrong
And there were times? we didn't always get along

But I'll think of you when it's dark and late
Lying beneath the stars in space?

I wouldn't change a thing
I'd do it all again
Except maybe then I'd understand it

Thanks for today
Your smile goes a long way
Now let's leave before the tide comes back in
No one's to blame
Concerning who we were and how we are
Learning every sunny day gets dark
