

Twenty Million People

Kate Smith

Twenty million people
Are listening to my song
But I'm only singin' for one

Twenty million people
Will know that I belong
To no one else under the sun

Every city street and country byway
Will hear my cheery
"Hello, Everybody!"

But they're not aware it's only my way
Of letting her know
That I need her so

If twenty million people
Would pass the word along
And ask her to please listen in

Maybe she'll discover
How lonely I've been
And even if she hasn't heard
Maybe she will take the word
Of twenty million people
Who know I'm just singin' for one
