

Crooked Road

Kate Voegele

Oh lonely heart, oh lonely heart, what makes you sing
When the whole, wide world starts crumbling?
And oh fallen star, oh fallen star, what gives you wings
When your feet can't keep from stumbling?

Been a long, long day, I want to run away

So will you roll with me? Rest your soul with me?
Will you hold me when I'm broken up inside?
Will you go with me? Will you roam with me
And take the road, the twisted, crooked line?
You need love? Take all mine

Oh nightingale, oh nightingale, where is your song?
Cause I need to hear it all night long
Oh wind in sails, oh wind in sails, why so strong?
You know I'm barely holding on

Need a gentle breeze, lift me off my feet

So will you roll with me? Rest your soul with me?
Will you hold me when I'm broken up inside?
Will you go with me? Will you roam with me
And take the road, the twisted, crooked line?
You need love? Take all mine

Lift me up and swing me low
Take me down the crooked road
Underneath the trees of gold
Darling I can call you home

Lift me up and swing me low
Take me down the crooked road
Underneath the trees of gold
Oh, darling I can call you

So will you roll with me? Rest your soul with me?
Will you hold me when I'm broken up inside?
Will you go with me? Will you roam with me
And take the road, the twisted, crooked line?
You need love? Take all mine

Will you roll with me? Rest your soul with me?
Will you hold me when I'm broken up inside?
Will you go with me? Will you roam with me
And take the road, the twisted, crooked line?
You need love? Take all mine, take all mine, take all mine
