Little Loneliness

It took a little loneliness To make you realize That all the mean things that you did To me were so unwise

(It took a little loneliness) To make you feel my dear The way my poor eyes burned each time You made me she'd a tear

I did everything I could To please you night and day But you cheated and you lied until You drove my love away

Now a little loneliness Is all that you posess You've lost the one who tried so hard To bring you happiness

But someone knew that you'd turn to Had made you feel this way And now all you have left is Loneliness
