It took a little loneliness
To make you realize
That all the mean things that you did
To me were so unwise

(It took a little loneliness)

To make you feel my dear

The way my poor eyes burned each time

You made me she'd a tear

I did everything I could To please you night and day But you cheated and you lied until You drove my love away

Now a little loneliness
Is all that you posess
You've lost the one who tried so hard
To bring you happiness

But someone knew that you'd turn to Had made you feel this way
And now all you have left is Loneliness
