Something In Me Was Dying

Something in me was dying And my heart was heavy as stone Hard as I was trying I never could find, find my way home And your voice came out of nowhere "Be my friend and give me your hand Let's take off together And then we can live wherever we land"

Something in me was broken And my thoughts were bitter and ill My world was blown open And I couldn't see and I couldn't feel You said "Be yourself and think of me And you'll know there's nothing to fear Let's make plans together It's time to move on and and get out of here"

Girl I need you, don't know what I would do Will you see the story through It's a cruel world and I need somewhere to hide But time goes by and you're still on my side

Something in me was sinking Cos my heart was heavy as stone I gave up, was thinking I never would find, find my way home And your voice came out of nowhere "Be my friend and give me your hand Let's take off together And then we can live wherever we land"

Girl I need you, don't know what I could do Will you see the story through It's a cruel world and I need somewhere to hide But time goes by and you're still on my side

Waiting, searching Turning over Running round in circles And I've worn myself out Hoping that we'll always be together Yeah we'll always be together
