

Walk Back In

Walk back in

Sometimes I wonder what my heart's supposed to do.
Yesterday she needed me, today she says we're through.

She ripped my heart to pieces, tore my soul apart.
And now she wants to know how to get back in my heart.

Well you don't have to beg, you don't have to cry.
Just walk back in and dry your weepin' eyes.
Don't have to run baby, don't have to crawl.
Just walk back in, we can start all over again.

She walked in the kitchen, handed me a note.
She said I've been such a fool boy, that's all that she wrote.

She said life ain't worth living, without you by my side
She stood there trembling, asking me if my love had died?

You don't have to beg, don't have to cry.
Just walk back in, and dry your weepin' eyes.
You don't have to run, don't have to crawl.
Just walk back in, we can start all over again....baby.

Tonight we're gonna work it out, yes we will.
Welcome home baby, I'm so glad we worked it out.
