

Just Another Girl

Keel

You think you've got the answers You say you've seen it all A midnight queen in a limosine With lovers at your beckon call

You think you've got it coming And that you've got it made But I've seen your kind a thousand times In every town, every place I've played

Cause I know You're just another girl in love Just another girl Just another girl in love You're only one more pretty face Just another girl

You're busy making small talk Too cool to make your move But if you want the best Just put your love to the test You got no time You got no time to lose

Just another girl Just another girl Just another girl in love

You're just another girl in love Just another girl Just another girl in love You're only one more pretty face Just another girl

Just another girl You just another girl Just another girl You just another girl in love Don't you know all of you Just another girl Just another girl Just another girl Just another girl in love Just another girl Just another girl
