

Envy And Its Manifesto

Kekal

Let's talk about something we know well, and its name is envy
Certainly not a similar kind with jealousy
And it is not about relationship, nor politics, nor a system
But instead, it is something do do with an individual drive
I see a path which is leading towards a life of depravity
It is clear, the ignorance acts as a destroyer of limits
A conscience set by one's ethical values is now questioned
When the initial point for the crime is about to be committed and executed

Walk this way

Gaining a chronic Cain-complex

Fade away

And kill the core of contentment

Every page of a book has its own substance that linked to the rest

The same thing applied exactly to humankind

People were born with all different shapes and patterns and un iqueness

Imagine what would happen if everyone owns the same everything
?

Walk this way

A lifeline has been made dysfunctional

Fade away

And kill the core of contentment