

Subsession / Once Again It Failed

Kekal

dripping blood as violent rages on, engulfing our soils - death is here, ringing fatality of civilization - massacre, the murders at random, in attempted genocide - thousand years of social paralysis, fathomless irony
- humankind in conflicting nature, the beauty and the beast - death to share, bringing fatality to civilization - ideologies and social systems based on human theories - so basically we're all into products of our corrupted brains! - deep in the void of our hollow hearts - is there any space left for souls to rest? - deep in the void of our wounded minds - is there any chance left for souls to live? - "no time to clean your bloody hands, the stains are there in your own blood!" - many years we've tried to look ahead and find some solutions - but once again they fail miserably, yet life is still going on - is there any space left for souls to rest?
