Beyond the Stars

Keldian

there□s a voice inside me a distant memory I know I□ve lived before the elder world has fallen to an age of wars the tide has turned again by the mercy of our sins we live our lives in a world made of dreams open your eyes release your astral ties and you will transcend beyond the stars

I can hear the suffering the hate inside and it pulls me to the ground bleeding hands are trembling can you forgive? is there courage to believe?

by the mercy of our sins we live our lives in a world made of dreams open your eyes release your astral ties and you will transcend beyond the stars