Outside Looking In

Kellie Coffey

From the outside looking in See two lovers on the Boardwalk On the first warm day of spring holding hands When I look again.

There is something missing from this picture That I don't understand From the outside looking in everybody sees A couple so in love, yeah that's you and me.

But from the inside looking out Everything is different, baby And I can't figure out If you can even see it maybe You still believe what everybody sees.

From the outside looking in Nothing's new, I had a good day, I love you too Is what we talk about We just settled in.

And here inside my head this voice is screaming But no one words are coming out From the outside looking in, close enough to touch I'm sitting right beside you, baby I'm missing you so much.

From the inside looking out
I'm watching our love slip away
And I can't figure out
How to reach you, what to say
Oh, it's killing me where nobody sees
From the outside looking in.
(From the outside looking in.)

And though I really love you (And though I really love you) I wish that you could see (I wish that you could see)
And are we just a habit, baby Oh, this isn't how it has to be.

'Cause from the inside looking out
We've still got a lot worth saving
Let's find each other now
Before we throw it all away
Oh, I still believe (I still believe)
We can go back again (we can go back again)
Be the lovers we see
From the outside looking in...
