

Someone Somewhere Tonight

Kellie Pickler

Someone somewhere tonight
Is taking their first steps
Letting go all the hands that held them
And trusting themselves
While somewhere somewhere tonight
Is hearing their last rites
And hopin' with all their might
That there's something else.

Well babe, lie down here beside me
Let's lie real still
And tell me you love me
And you always will.

Someone somewhere tonight
Is tasting their first kiss
Whisp'ring softly this wish
For the night to go on
While someone somewhere tonight
Is holdin' on to a bottle
Pourin' one more and prayin' that God will Get them through 'till the dawn.

Well babe, lie down here beside me
Let's lie real still
And tell me you love me
And you always will

Someone somewhere tonight
Is stuck in a prison
And their breathin', their just barely livin'
Behind walls of their own
But someone somewhere tonight
Just found their own wings
Found some beauty, found some truth, found some meaning
In spite of it all.

Well babe lie down here beside me
Let's lie real still
And tell me you love me
And you always will.
