

Easy (as Falling Apart)

Kelly Willis

I want my mind to pull me through
'Cause up until now that's been hard to do
How could I know, yeah, how could I know
That it'd be easy

I want my heart to stand alone
And to be the one that's made of stone
But how could I know, yeah, how could I know
That it'd be easy, easy as falling apart

Woke from the sweetest dream
And brought to the floor
And robbed of the only thing
That I'm living for

And I want the sun to shine to shine on me
To show me the way and set me free
How could I know, oh, how could I know
That it'd be easy, easy as falling apart

Woke from the sweetest dream
And brought to the floor
And robbed of the only thing
That I'm living for

The farther I fall, the more I know
That I'm gonna have to let you go
But how could I know, oh, how could I know
That it'd be easy, easy, easy as falling apart
Easy, easy, easy as falling apart
