

Daddy

Kendall Payne

How long have I been dreaming? Who forgot to wake, to wake me up?

I know it sounds crazy but daddy now I think I'm in love
Cause when he steps in the room my heart begins to pound

You said, "Never settle," you promised there was one out there for me

It's true, I might have doubted but he's standing here and now I believe

Yes, I know you'll be proud of the man that chose me

It's elementary to the wise, for the fool in full disguise
Beggars bow and poets kneel, and as for me... it's finally real

I will always love you and I will always be your little girl
None could come between us, you'll forever be the first man in my world

But when he smiles I can see how much he reminds me of you
A man of faith, a man of strength, who loves me like you do

It's all the time I've spent in tears, worth the heartache, worth the fears

To stand beside him on this day after you give me away

How long have I been sleeping? Who forgot to wake, to wake me up?

Daddy, he's amazing, he's everything that I've been dreaming of

And now he has become my very best friend...
