Honest

Kendall Payne

Boy, know your place Lies do not become us Real is more attractive than a slick and polished mask Girl, dig down deep I know there's more between us There's bound to be a question You're just dying for me to ask

If you can be honest I can be too If you'll take the first step I'll follow you through But no one wants to bleed No one wants to hide No one wants to hurt alone inside

Child, don't close your eyes The truth contains much beauty And though it scars your soul It can heal the wounds it makes You've been deceived to think That pain is to be dreaded And you've got nothing left It'll give more than it takes

If you can't find a peace I'll help find it for you I don't know how But one thing that's sure Is I won't leave you now

If you can be honest I can be too If you take the first step I'll follow you through No one wants to bleed No one wants to hide No one wants to hurt alone inside
