A Woman Knows

Kenny Chesney

She can't put her finger on a single lipstick stain Perfume doesn't linger in a shirt There's no matchbook in his pocket with a number and a name So why does she still hurt

'Cause a woman knows, when there's another woman She can feel her, all over her man A woman knows, when there's another woman You can't fool her, don't try to think you can

What she don't know won't hurt her that's what he tells himself So he hides his cheatin' heart inside his chest He thinks he's put one over, but what he doesn't know is He's already confessed

'Cause a woman knows, when there's another woman She can feel her, all over her man A woman knows, when there's another woman You can't fool her, don't try to think you can

A woman knows, when there's another woman You can't fool her, don't try to think you can You can't fool her, don' try to think you can