It was early one morning Playa del Carmen That's when I first met Jose He had a 12 foot Schooner A 3 foot cooler Full of the catch of the day And he was wrinkled from grinning From all of the sun he had been in He was barefoot, cerveza in hand He said "Gracias senor", when I paid him too much for All of the Snapper he had Now I told him my friend it ain't nothing In the best broken Spanish I knew I said I make a good living Back home where I'm from He smiled and said Amigo me too

He said I fish and I play my guitar I laugh at the bar with my friends I go home to my wife I pray every night I can do it all over again

Somewhere over Texas
I thought of my Lexus
And all the stuff I work so hard for
And all the things that I've gathered
From climbing that ladder
Didn't make much sense anymore
They say my nest egg ain't ready to hatch yet
They keep holding my feet to the fire
They call it paying the price
So that one day in life
I'll have what I need to retire

And just fish
And play my guitar
And laugh at the bar with my friends
And go home to my wife
And pray every night
I can do it all over again

And to think that I thought for a while there that I had it made When the truth is I'm really just dying To live like Jose

And just fish
Play my guitar
Laugh at the bar with my friends
Go home to my wife
Pray every night
I can do it all over again

Wouldn't that be the life? Wouldn't that be the life?
