

This Is How My Song Goes

Kenny Loggins

I can still hear you say
"Give up on yourself
You give up on me"
Oh, mother of my children
Anchor of my soul
With all that I've been given
I should thank the Lord
And if life is just a tale to tell
I don't want a tragedy
I want a love story
All I've ever known
Been my beacon home
It's the water of my soul
All I've ever known
It's my blood 'n bone
It's the water of my soul

This is how my song goes
This is how my song goes
Anywhere the wind blows
This is how my song goes

I tried to see myself
Through the mirror of the world
But the image returned
Distorted and cracked
The more that I travel
The more it comes back
To you and me
And all the simple things
It's the song we sing

This is how my song goes
This is how my song goes
No matter wherever the wind blows
This is how my song goes

This is how my song goes
This is how my song goes
Where there used to be walls I got windows
This is how my song goes
