

I don't need you

Kenny Rogers

I don't need you
I don't need friendship
And I don't need flowers in the Spring and don't need you
And you surely don't need me.

I don't need love and affection
And I don't need peace and harmony
And I don't need you
And you surely don't need me.

But we both want it bad enough
Yes, we both want it, don't we?
I don't need you, baby
And I know you don't need me.

I don't need your loving arms around me
All I need is to be free
That's what I keep telling myself
And I tell you: "you don't need me".

I don't need children in my old age
No more cluttered leaves around the trees
And I don't need you
We don't need eachother baby
We don't need eachother baby, or do we?
