

Lying Again

Kenny Rogers

The morning sun woke me
I felt the warm soft skin beneath my hands
The last night the devil got to me
In the day I'm just a common man.

So I'll get up and say goodbye
And on the way home I'll make up my life
That holds our lives together
One more time.

I'll be lying again, I'll be trying again
Hoping I don't hurt you like the last time
But you'll be crying again
You know I'm lying again
Telling you this is the last time.