

It Doesn't Have To Hurt

Kensington

Could a spark illuminate the dark You did it all You've always done

A false alarm A light that blinds us all You're heaven sent But cold within

When you lose yourself In a gasp for air When it doesn't have to hurt It always will

We gave it all The aim was for the stars Our time had come And we wasted it all

When you lose yourself In a gasp for air When it doesn't have to hurt It always will When you fool yourself With a grain of sand When it doesn't have to hurt It always will When it doesn't have to hurt It always will

I'll do it on my own The fall is all we know The same as life before I'll do this on my own

It doesn't have to hurt It doesn't have to hurt When it doesn't have to hurt It always will When it doesn't have to hurt It always will
