Before It All Ends

Modern thoughts about each other Can't make you shine out any brighter Antique promises uncovered When we stop breathing for each other We're drained of our will

Are you happy now? Are you happy now? Are you happy now? Is there still time before it all ends

Finally I found the words to tell you I caught your hands under our table There's still time for us to grow up Closer to the sun before the summer slides to October

Are you happy now? Are you happy now? Are you happy now? Is there still time before it all ends

Empty gunshells in a park station The hollow ring of our growing impatience I knew you'd equal the occasion My hand in your hand while the others Are dragged in the flow

Are you happy now? Are you happy now? Are you happy now? Is there still time before it all ends

Are you happy now? Are you happy now? Are you happy now? Is there still time before it all ends Kent
