

Sit In The Sun

Keren Ann

The pale blue light along the coast
Is one of those I miss the most
There was that day
You touched my hair
And said, my love, it's so unfair

It's too late to sit in the sun
And lately we've just begun
Oh it's too late to tell everyone
But lately we've just begun

The one thin light that drove the peer
Seems very far when you are here
There was that day
You took my hand
And said, my love, that's where it ends

It's too late to sit in the sun
And lately we've just begun
Oh it's too late to tell everyone
But lately we've just begun

It's too late to sit in the sun
And lately we've just begun
Oh it's too late to tell everyone
But lately we've just begun

The pale blue light along the coast
It means the one
I like the most
There was that day
You touched my hair
And said, my love, it's so unfair
