

Only Heaven Knows

Kevin Ayers

What do you do when it's all behind you
Everyday something else reminds you
When the times were sweet, wings on your feet
And bells on your toes, only heaven knows

What do you do when you've lost the feeling
Nowhere to go, you've reached the ceiling
Back down on the floor, no window, no door
Yeah, everything's closed and only heaven knows

Love is a treat, a magical feat
Illusion or for real
You're never quite sure if it's true what you feel
Or something that you felt before

What do you do when you know you're losing?
Sit on your ass and let the blues in
Think of what you had and how it all went bad
You send her a rose and only heaven knows

Love is a treat, a magical feat
Illusion or for real
You're never quite sure if it's true what you feel
Or something that you've felt before

What do you do when it's all behind you
Everyday something else reminds you?
When the times were sweet, wings on your feet
And bells on your toes, only heaven knows

Only heaven knows
Only heaven knows