

Try

Kina Grannis

Having nowhere else to go
He was lonely, she was cold
Whenever they went out it seemed
As though the world began to grow
The two, they both did not feel big enough
To take on something of their own
And they kept moving along
Singing a song, a sad song
Of how they'd never learn
And they'd never know to

Try, they've been paralyzed
By fearful eyes and realize
That you can move along
And write your own songs
And be on your way

He had always dreamed to change
The world around him, rearrange the mess
Cause through his eyes it all was beautiful
But not to all the rest, oh no
He had so much to say, he had so much to show
And he kept moving along
Singing a song, a sad song
Of how he'd never know and he'd never learn to

Try, he's been paralyzed
By fearful eyes and realize
That you can move along
And write your own songs
And be on your way

She was unsure of many things
Disregarding others
Well she loved to sing, no no
And she was too scared to fail
Too scared to give it a go
And she kept moving along
Singing a song, a sad song
Of how she'd never know
And she'd never learn to

Try, she's been paralyzed
By fearful eyes and realize
That you can move along
And write your own songs
And be on your way

And I'll stop running away
If you start learning to say
And speak your mind
And I'll keep writing my songs
If you stop thinking you're wrong today

Try, we've been paralyzed
By fearful eyes and realize
That you can move along

And write your own songs
And be on your way

Try, he's been paralyzed
By fearful eyes and realize
That you can move along
And write your own songs
And be on your way