

24 Hours

Kingdom Come

I'm hating the days, I'm living without you
They feel like a waste, nothing I can do

The essence of life, to share it together
The dream of all times, happy forever

It's never enough, to know you'll will be back
The moment you're gone, I'm losing track

The side effects, I'm learning to take
Like hammer of gods, determine my fate

You took me by storm, and bound us forever
When I was still torn, you held us together

A diamond so pure, with so many colors
Wanting to wear you, 24 hours

I always fought, for keeping my freedom
Always ignored, that you may be leaving

Afraid to get up, when you're not around
I'm needing your touch, needing your sound