

Where Will You Go

Kip Winger

Tears are running through your make up
See the water touch the ground
I never know quite how to love you
Only how to let you down

Every night I hear you wake up
From a dream that never came
But something's keeping you from running
Afraid to be alone again and again

Where will you go
Now that you know the laughter
May not last very long
And how will you know
That you won't be walking out
But your heart will still be holding on

Through the garden to the sidewalk
Hearing the words tearing you down
You thought that nothing left could faze you
Watching the water touch the ground

Where will you go
Now that you know the laughter
May not last very long
And how will you know
That you won't be walking out
But your heart will still be holding on

How many times I never gave up
A simple love for simple love
I never know quite how to know you
But I know I'm still in love

Where will you go
Now that you know the laughter
May not last very long
And how will you know
That you won't be walking out
But your heart will still be holding on
