

Try Me

Kirk Franklin

Everybody needs somebody who'll be there someone to wipe the tears and make you smile. So if you need someone that will not judge you when you fall no matter what you've done my love will answer when you call.

So after your hearts been torn in two and you just don't know what to do, after the rain has come and gone and the sun still won't shine, after your friends
have walked away and you've run out of words to say, after you've tried everything else, then try me, ooh yeah

Life can make you cry and hurt you deep inside, I promise you I know the pain you feel. So if you let me love you I can take those clouds away. I'll fill your world with joy and all your wrong I will erase.

So after your hearts been torn in two and you just don't know what to do, after
the rain has come and gone and the sun still won't shine, after
your friends
have walked away and you've run out of words to say, after you've tried
everything else, then try me, ooh yeah

Even though you hurt me and sometimes forget my name. My love is unconditional that means that it would never ever change.

So after your hearts been torn in two and you just don't know what to do, after
the rain has come and gone and the sun still won't shine, after
your friends
have walked away and you've run out of words to say, after you've tried
everything else, then try me, ooh yeah

So whatever you need, you can you can try me oh yeah try me, try me