One Week Later

One week later oh how I cried Just one week later I wish I could die You were so sure you could forget me You didn't want me by your side

When someone new came and took you I thought I would be glad to say goodbye One week later I hurt deep inside One week later my tears I couldn't hide One week later oh how I cried

Yes one week later I wish I could die I prayed for god to forgive me Yes you broke a heart true as good But now I relived every moment We'll regret it until we grow old

One week later I hurt deep inside One week later my tears I couldn't hide One week later oh how I cried Yes one week later I wish I could die
