Password

Kitty Wells

Password, please use the password
It opens the door to my heart
Password, love is the password
Just say the words of love and come on in

This game of love we're playing Is a game that's played by two Two that seem so much in love Still one cannot be true

We played this game of love before But this time I hope I'll win 'Cause I don't think that I can go Through this game of love again

Password, please use the password Just say the words of love and come on in

Password, please use the password
It opens the door to my heart
Password, love is the password
Just say the words of love and come on in