At The End Of The Rainbow

One day when life is taking you nowhere And you need someone who really cares When the love that you lost is found And you will want me around I'll meet you at the end of the rainbow

As you walk through this world I'll be there With you wherever you may go And although you'll never see me One day you're gonna need me At the end of the rainbow

Since you left I've felt the changes You drained away my life in stages But deep inside something lets me know Though history still turns its pages I will track you through the ages And we will meet again Somewhere at the end of the rainbow At the end of the rainbow Klaatu
