Lies

I would like to search inside for all of the things that you will hide What's the problem? Can't you seem to search through these problems that haunt and taunt you I smile, while you're afraid Your run, while you're so in pain

Do you ever see it [out from] outside your fears Thinking about your life Thinking about your inner fears

I would like to search inside for all of the things that you will hide What's the problem? Can't you seem to open your body and let me touch you

I want to see the life you have disguised The world of things that hurt you Kept all these useless lies I want you to fear, fill you on up inside Once I took you in, I'll throw you out next time I tried, you win My life is ripping your heart out and destroying my pain! Go!

Korn