

Princess Brave!

KOTOKO & ぽこぽこ

My favorite old, worn picture book, hugged in the bosom of my pajamas
A sleepless Sleeping Beauty; Moonlight that illuminates the pages
That was a distant country from an old fairy tale
The STORY of the adventures of a small princess who left on a journey to find love

Innocence surpassing an angel's, swordplay beating a swordsman's
Not even the fire of a dragon bearing its fangs and roaring or a million enemies can stop her recklessly untainted courage beautiful FACE, BRIDE dancing in the wind, BRAVE in the heart, embrace it FLAME in the eyes, BLADE being wielded, BREAK the wall, leap over it

Can't ask Dad(King) and Mom(Queen) for the shining treasure
The journey still continues while dreaming of romance

Before I notice it's open to my favorite scene again
At the end of the journey, the sword is chipped, and though, looking back, the castle is far away
Even so the location of the dream-fulfilling kiss is finally tracked down
The valiant STORY of the small princess who sings tunes of love

The darkness of the witch that envies light blackly obstructs the goal Firm, unwavering feelings become the sharply shining point and pierce the heart of the witch of despair precious FATE, SLAVE if you give up, BRAVE in the heart, confirm it GATE about to close, PRAY just a little, a dark GRAVE, run through it

Standing up using her broken sword as a cane, the worn, tattered PRINCESS Cries out a love of steel headlong into the wind

Yeah!

ruthless GAME, valiantly PLAY, thus PRIDE can't be given up the concluding PAGE, only you PAINT, someday BRIDE, feel admiration

Close the book, wear something nice, let's open the door and jump out
The world must be waiting for a girl in love
