

The Captive

Kris Kristofferson

I'd like to say that I can see the target of my destiny .
And that it guided everything I do.
I'd like to think that I could take a drink of you and just walk away but God and I both know it's not true.

Someday I'm bound to be free.
And I'll be ready for whatever life ensues.
But for the moment I remain the captive of the human brain.
That blew it'self to pieces over you.

Sorry that I put you through the one thing that we could not do
. .
Was get along together or apart.
Thankin' you for leavin' me a stronger man than I used to be.
And just a little harder in the heart.

Someday I'm bound to be free (you know me).
And I'll be ready for whatever road I choose.
But for the moment I remain the captive of the human brain that
. .
Blew itself to pieces lovin' you ...