Krizz Kaliko

Here's a story bout'a little boy who wasn't so bad Silent but he feelin'so sad, as a young lad he lost his dad Momma didn't have much, but thankful for the things she had Mom and sister was the parenting system, tucked him in his bed at night
Then on his head she'd kiss him, but lights go out is when it s tarted, yea
Little Christopher became very scared, so there, in his closet things began to move Back and forth, that of course was all in his head, don't need no sugar fo'bed
Was the meaning, waking up from a dream screaming, all the whil e singing, that I...

I got an upside down, smile tonight
Gotta wipe my frown, dry my eyes
Kids this is how it is when you're older
Wake up, and you're Bipolar

Before he became a man, He almost lost his fam, sis, and mom ag ain
In the school bathroom vomitin', he's shaken up, mood swings wh o swings when waking up Dude seems cool, but really breakin'up. People go in and out of his life, He missed out on his wife So he decides to go and grab a knife, and take hisself to the other side of the sun Cause if he stays here then more pain'll just come. Take him aw ay from this,
If he could escape from this, he'd even pay to make this his la st day,
Then a ray from the sky shined on him, and God smiled on him
And now the whole world gets to hear him sing.

I got an upside down, smile tonight
Gotta wipe my frown, dry my eyes
Kids this is how it is when you're older
Wake up, and you're Bipolar

Pull you're self up out of it, even if you doubt it
You can live without it, Just forget about it I know you tried to drown it, Tried to get up out it Head to the sky and shout it.

I got an upside down, smile tonight
Gotta wipe my frown, dry my eyes
Kids this is how it is when you're older
Wake up, and you're Bipolar
