

I can see thru the laughter
I know you've cried your share of tears
But you don't have to do this by yourself
You tell me that you feel abandoned
Carrying the weight of all this pain inside
You trust in someone else
But you're crying out for help

I'm a believer
That He's strong enough to hold you now where you are
I'm a believer
In the One who's always reaching out to your heart
He understands you
There's not a greater love that you'll find in this life
I'm a believer in Christ

You're trying to escape the landslide
Running from the choices that you've made
When will you surrender to His grace
He promises He'll never leave you
Offering to free you from your past
Cause that's the sacrifice He's made
He can be your shelter and your strength

No matter what you've done
Or how far you've run
There is hope for you
For every broken heart
He'll meet you where you are
He will rescue you
Let Him rescue you