

Catalyst

Kyla La Grange

Come in, take your coat off, I'll sit you down
I've watched you from shadows, I made no sound
I'll light you a fire, your hands are cracked
I've slashed all your tires, you cannot go back

Oh nobody caught me yet, I hope that you will
And all of us are drawn by lust to kill and to be killed
I see it in your eyes

And all our skin burned so fast
I'll give you a love that cannot last
And all our eyes light like flames
I need you to forever call my name

Lie down, take your clothes off and let me stare
I've watched you for hours, my eyes stripped you bare
Stop me from crying, I shouldn't keep you there
For all that I needed, I need you not to care

Oh nobody caught me yet, I hope that you will
And all of us are drawn by lust to kill and to be killed
Oh nobody caught me yet, I hope that you will
And all of us return to dust and that's what makes me ill

Do you see it in my eyes?

And all our skin burned so fast
I'll give you a love that cannot last
And all our eyes light like flames
I need you to forever call my name