

Hillside Avenue

Ladyhawke

Leave me floating at sea
I count the stars that flow through my Veins at night when I'm alive
Almost drifting out of sight
The ocean takes me to the horizon
Like the sun at night

Even when I wake myself
I need you pull me together
I always have to tell myself
"You know you have to pull it together"

There is a land that we all belong to
It's old enough to kill confusion
Cause it's about time, we moved to higher ground
Down on Hillside Avenue

Morning comes too easily
I only closed my eyes for a second
But I felt alive
Sun shines through the window pane
It gently wakens all of my senses
Washes off the night

Even when I wake myself
I need you pull me together
I always have to tell myself
"You know you have to pull it together"

There is a land that we all belong to
It's old enough to kill confusion
Cause it's about time, we moved to higher ground
Down on Hillside Avenue

There is a land that we all belong to
It's old enough to kill confusion
Cause it's about time, we moved to higher ground
Down on Hillside Avenue

I had a hard time waking up
And the water was closing in, closing in
Have you ever heard of dream
When everything feels so real, surreal
Don't wake me up, don't wake me up

There is a land that we all belong to
It's old enough to kill confusion
Cause it's about time, we moved to higher ground
Down on Hillside Avenue

There is a land that we all belong to
It's old enough to kill confusion
Cause it's about time, we moved to higher ground
Down on Hillside Avenue
