Choke

Lagwagon

Choke choke pride Still I could only wait for you to decide Tear it all apart You break my heart Why don't you follow through Follow through And the day ends A so called friend A drunken bed How could you with Why would you All of them No one owns you Just keep me hanging here Tell me you need me dear Tell me you're sure I shouldn't fear Lies lies lies Choke choke please Have another drink on me My love humiliation I gave you every chance to leave And you stayed just long enough To bury me As I understand what no one can see I stop And all these words seem selfish And anger you And none of it is true But all of them confess until I choke I tough I knew a true love I used to think you really cared I used to think I knew true innocence I though that you were that I know you to well when you lie I hope you choke on them And see for me For me And all these words seem selfish and Anger you And you were always true Am I the only want that hears you lie?
