

Last Purple Sky

Lake of Tears

I like to watch things like to watch things grow and to take things slow

I like to take them in with the starlight and the moon on a cold night

Oh I'd like to see them stay

Like those days
when we must walk this world alone
Last purple sky turns grey
And the world grows cold

I like to watch them like to watch them go To where they are gone

I like to take them on to take them all
And to make them small

Oh I'd like to see them stay

Like those days
when we must walk this world alone
Last purple sky turns grey

Like those days
when we must walk this world alone

And the world grows like those days
