

There's only 24 hours in a day,
And half as many ways for you to lie to me,
My little love.

There's only 24 hours in a day,
And half of those you lay awake with thoughts of murder,
And carnage.

If you lie down with dogs,
Then you'll get fleas,
Be careful, love,
The company the keep.

There's only 24 hours,
And that's not enough,
To lie like you lie,
Or love like you love.

There's only 24 hours in a day,
And half of those you lay between the sheets,
With me, my lying love.

There's only 24 hours, so we say,
For most of them you pay for all the things,
They paid you for my love.

If you lie down with dogs,
Then you'll get fleas,
Be careful of,
The ones you choose to leave.

There's only 24 hours,
And that's not enough,
To lie like you lie,
Or love like you love.

Give me your heat,
Give me you diamonds,
You hit that street,
And you're my crooked love.
You come to win,
While they're all dying,
You're hard to reach,
You're cold to touch.
