

Two Can Play That Game

Lana Lane

When we're alone the night is endless
In my mind I'm all your eyes can see
Like the stars in the sky hold up the heavens
Your heart holds another's key

But I'm not leavin' without a good fight
Maybe we're wrong, but maybe we're right
If she gets hurt there's only you to blame
'Cause two can play that game

Only one winner leaves the war
Left with open wounds and an even score
Hold onto me and my love so pure
And you'll be mine 'ever more

'Cause I'm not leavin' without a good fight
But I'm not leavin' without a good fight
Maybe we're wrong, but maybe we're right
If she gets hurt there's only you to blame
'Cause two can play that game
Only two can play that game

Only two, two, two can play that game
Oh, only two can play that game
