Why do all the best girls have a loaded gun
Immortal group of killers ready for landing
And why do all the best girls never look behind
Before you cut their long hair and forget to be honest

I try to get answers from the others Instead of myself one of the questions on the road is Do I ever find a way home

Why do all the best girls never look like whores They have friends to talk to and hold on to And why do all the best girls never fuck it up Before you cut their hair and decide to be honest

I try to get answers from the others Instead of myself one of the questions on the road is Do I ever find my way home

I know you have something to look for
I know you have something you hate to show
I know you have something to look for
I know you have something you hate to show

I try to get answers from the others Instead of myself one of the questions on the road is Do I ever find my way home