December

Last Winter

I can't count the ways Times left in the shade It brings me to today But I remember Last December Looking outward From down here Night approaching As I'm learning Colors never change

The sky fell between my Young and careless eyes Braiding myself in The red December sky

I remember Last December Memories never change