

Finally Found

Late Night Alumni

I hear the room fill with laughter
And then forget everything after.
You stand there memorizing. I'm here, barely breathing.
There's something I should have said but I laughed along instead.

You know what you want but you get what you said that you know
you've always said that you wanted instead.
I know what I want and suddenly it's the sound of you off to the side saying, I'm finally found.

I hear your heart beating faster
But I'm unclear on what you're after.
You give me no reason why I shouldn't say goodbye.
I can't think what I could have said so I'll break your heart instead.

You know what you want but you get what you said that you know
you've always said that you wanted instead.
I know what I want and suddenly it's the sound of you off to the side saying, I'm finally found.

You know what you want but you get what you said that you know
you've always said that you wanted instead.
I know what I want and suddenly it's the sound of you off to the side saying, I'm finally found.