

What You Said

Laura Cantrell

I've been thinking about you
About change, about life
It turned so strange what you said
Turned so strange what you said

Now I see you and now I don't
And now the word's caught in my throat
I can't reply to what you said

The moon in the sky a perfect half
A perfect half as long as
The moon's forever changing
I'm forever loving you

Now you see me and now you don't
And now the word's caught in my throat
I can't reply to what you said