

The Moon The Sun

Laura Marie

Brighter than anything else at this distance
I know it seems larger than life
But it isn't the world that you're in,
It's just the world that you are
Nothing warms up in this light. It's like it's never inside.
You just hope that it might be what you think that
You need in your life if you can stay who you are.

.

Don't you know that you're the moon?
When you suffer in your silence,
I'm a tide that you have moved. I come rushing by your guidance

.

Turning and turning away, I thought you'd leave me
Alone in the mess that we made but you just follow
Your course and you're home. It's just a matter of time.

I feel your heat at the door.
I wanted light but it's burning like never before.
Maybe it feels like you're going too far because you're reaching so high.

Don't you know that you're the sun?
You are turning with such violence.
I am taken and undone. I am burning in the brightness.

Oh my love, let's see how far you can go.
I don't know how you don't know that you are what you are.
Oh my love, let's see how far you can go.
I don't know how you don't know that you are what you are.
Oh my love, you're just like the stars above
Don't you think that you're not enough 'cause I know that you are...